Dynamic Teaching Methods

APSAC's five-day clinic goes far beyond PowerPoint presentations and handouts to bring you powerful, hands-on learning opportunities.

Interview practicum:

Conduct interviews with constructive feedback that builds on and improves professional skills

Mock court:

Attendees testify and are examined by attorneys who specialize in child abuse cases

Didactic presentations and skill-based exercises led by nationally recognized experts

Child Forensic Interview Clinics

Ensure you're conducting interviews based on up-to-date best practices.

APSAC'S Child Forensic Interview Clinics will provide you with the latest interview techniques, and prepare you to explain and defend those techniques in court.

"The tools and skills gained from APSAC have helped me move away from the reliance and crutch of anatomical drawings when conducting child forensic interviews. By using the techniques taught, I have observed that children elicit much more detail in their narrative, which makes my job, as well as the job of law enforcement and prosecution, much easier."

See what participants are saying...

"What's truly innovative about APSAC is that they are constantly using the most up to date research about interviewing techniques that are used in their trainings, instead of giving you a script that could be outdated by the next year! The variety of teaching styles was also helpful, offering all types of learners an opportunity to learn best. Also, their hands-on mock court is an important learning experience that was not offered by other providers and made it worth-while to attend APSAC's clinic."
