

Dr. Ewen Wang is Associate Director of Pediatric Emergency Medicine, Assistant Professor in the division of emergency medicine, department of surgery and by courtesy, pediatrics, at Stanford University. She has a strong interest and dedication to, community health, medical education, and researching disparities in pediatric emergency care, both internationally and in California. Her research focuses on identifying and decreasing disparities in regionalized specialty care for children in California.

Her current endeavors are focusing on trauma care and mental health access for children. Dr. Wang presently has a Career Development Award from the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development. She has received internal support from the LPCH including a Child Health Research Program grant as well as external funding from the Emergency Medicine Foundation Career Development Program. Dr. Wang is committed to providing optimum emergency health care for all children in need.