Ciara Collins, LMFT, is a doctoral candidate at the University of Connecticut in the Department of Human Development and Family Studies. Her research is focused improving the well-being of youth in kin and non-relative foster care, as well as improving foster parent training.