Dr. Mark Everson directs the Program on Childhood Trauma and Maltreatment (PCTM) within the UNC Department of Psychiatry, an outpatient clinical program specializing in the assessment and treatment of abused, neglected, and psychologically traumatized children and adolescents. PCTM offers clinical and forensic services in the form of brief assessments, extended evaluations, brief and long-term treatment, case reviews, case consultations, and expert witness testimony. In addition, Dr. Everson and his staff offer training workshops to professionals from mental health, social services, law enforcement and law on a range of topics including child forensic interviewing, the assessment of allegations of child physical and sexual abuse, and the treatment of child and adolescent victims of maltreatment.

Dr. Everson has served on the National Board of Directors of the American Professional Society on the Abuse of Children (APSAC). He is one of the lead developers of the RADAR Child Forensic Interview Model. During the last 35 + years, Dr. Everson’s professional career has focused on the assessment of allegations of child maltreatment with an emphasis on the application of research to practice.
