Luciana C. Assini-Meytin, Ph.D., is an Assistant Scientist at the Moore Center for the Prevention of Child Sexual Abuse, Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health. Her research is primarily concentrated on developing and evaluating strategies to prevent children from being sexually abused. She also investigates the long-term consequences of sexual abuse and other types of traumatic events experienced in childhood for both men and women.