

A twenty-year marketing veteran, Hunter launched her first marketing communications firm in San Francisco, CA. She quickly gained several household names as clients: Hewlett-Packard, SUN, Cisco and Mayor Brown's Office. After relocating to the Washington DC area, Hunter began a consulting agency picking up notable companies such as AOL, national nonprofits and elected officials appointed Hunter to the VA Workforce Investment Board, representing a municipality as well as several economic development boards. Working in politics, she was a press secretary for a Mayoral campaign, police chief campaign, and three US Congressional campaigns. The latest, a Congressional campaign in Texas during the 2012 election.

Doreen Hunter brings a unique voice to this conversation. On top of her work as advocate for survivors, and word as chair of the Texas Abuse campaign, Doreen is a victim... caught in the very system where her child is not being protected. She can speak to the current research, Texas data of child abuse and child abuse fatalities, and share from her own experience the need to address ACEs and trauma for Texas children.

Doreen Hunter has been public speaking since 1997. Her latest speaking opportunities: October 20, 2012 introduced Justice Rose Spector at the NW Candidate Forum. Spector was the first women to sit on the Texas Supreme Court.
